ROLL CALL RESULT IS DISAPPOINTING

RED CROSS WORKERS GET ONLY $300 IN MARYVILLE

OTHER TOWNS DO BETTER

Hopkins and Graham Get Good Start—Most of Money Stays in The County

Thirty-seven workers covered practically all of Maryville yesterday on the Nodaway County Red Cross Membership Roll Call. Both residence and business sections were visited. The returns amounted to only about $300. Some reports have been received from over the County. From Hopkins, Mr. W. L. Moorhead reports that last Sunday evening they held a very successful Red Cross mass meeting. Mrs. Eva Hackney, the county nurse was one of the speakers. At this meeting about $50 was secured for the Red Cross and Mr. Moorhead states that committees were appointed and that they have set their goal at $200.

Mrs. M. M. Rhodes reports from Graham that half the town and one school district have alone turned in $55. From Skidmore the word has come from the chairman, Rolla Howden, that he has returns from only two of his workers and the amount so far is $45. If the start of the Roll Call in other places comes to this amount they will nicely exceed what was given last year.

Wilbur Smith at Pickering has a complete organization of town and township, and is himself setting a good pace.

The response to the Membership Roll Call in Maryville is disappointing. The funds to carry on our county Better Health program and home service work are derived from the membership dues. Only fifty cents of the $1, $5.00 and $10.00 memberships go out of the county. Fifty cents, $4.50 and $9.50 of these memberships go to the county work.

F. S. King asked a recent Red Cross officer who was in Maryville, how the Nodaway County Chapter compared with what other counties were accomplishing, as regards efficiency, achievement, and economy. The answer was, that Nodaway County was doing more work for less money than almost any other county. The work of examining 3200 school children has been possible because the doctors of the county county their services as one of the duties they owe their county. Mrs. Eva Hackney and Miss Betty Turner are the only paid workers. All other work such as executive board, nursing committee and assistance, Roll Call Work, and the many other services necessary are all voluntary because of the cooperation throughout the county and because of volunteers the Roll Call work has been done for a very low figure.

With the average for the county of children needing corrective physical attention running about 50 per cent of the children examined, the need for pushing the work is evident. Maryville's contribution to this work for "Better Babies, Better Boys and Girls, Better Men and Women in Nodaway County" amounts to approximately one third of what was given for the construction of the Tourist Park.

Mrs. C. C. Hellmers is the chairman for Maryville. In the name of the Red Cross she desires to thank those who helped her. Mrs. Hellmers also desires to thank Prof. H. O. Ezell for releasing twenty-four High School girls for this work.

The following women gave their time to the Roll Call all day yesterday:

Mrs. W. J. Montgomery, Mrs. F. S. King, Mrs. H. E. Turk, Mrs. Frank White, Mrs. Harry Todd, Mrs. H. H. Mutz, Mrs. J. R. Juvenal, Mrs. Blaine Archer, Mrs. Glenn Reese, Miss Dessa Gault, Miss Mattie Price.

The following High School girls solicited yesterday afternoon:

Mary Curruet, Roberta Cook, Alice Allen, Gertrude Garrett, Norma Randall, Irene Blagg, Blanche Anderson, Blanche McMillen, Bessie Murray, Grace Foster, Esther Gile, Irene Lowry, Glee Hukill, Dorothea Snoderly, Mildred Wray, Myrtle Frazee, Selma Smith, Francis Sheirbon, Grace Dietz, Treva Phipps, Roxie Tarpley, Alene Carter, Roena Shinabargar, Neva Ross, Lucile Cummins.

During 1920 the United States produced 2,476,166 ounces of gold valued at $51,186,900, and 55,361,573 ounces of silver valued at $60,801,955.

MISS. ANNA W. GIBBS TO BE ASSISTANT LIBRARIAN

New Member of College Faculty Is Graduate of Peabody College At Nashville, Tenn.

Miss Anna W. Gibbs of Grenada, Miss., will arrive Monday, November 21, to occupy the position of assistant librarian at the State Teachers College. She will carry on the work that Miss Sarah Hougham did last year.

Miss Gibbs comes to the college with exceedingly good recommendations. She is a graduate of Peabody College at Nashville, Tenn., where she was engaged in library work. After her graduation she was assistant librarian at that institution.

Lately she has been connected with the library of the Normal School at Florence, Ala.

GIRL BREAK LEG PLAYING FOOTBALL

MISS THELMA TOBIN INJURED AT LINDENWOOD COLLEGE

WAS STUDENT IN M. H. S.

Leg Is Broken During Practice Scrimmage—Miss Tobin Quarterback Of "Missouri" Team

While playing quarterback on the girls' football team of Lindenwood College at St. Charles, Miss Tobin, granddaughter of Mrs. M. Tobin of this city, suffered a broken leg during a practice scrimmage on the campus last Friday. Mrs. Tobin learned this last Friday. She is at St. Joseph's hospital, St. Charles.

Miss Tobin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tobin, who live in DeQueen, Arkansas. She attended the Maryville High School for three years, leaving at the end of her junior year to enter Lindenwood College this fall. She is only 16 years old.

Mrs. Tobin learned of the injury to her granddaughter through the newspapers and had had no further word as to her condition until this morning, when she received a letter from the mother, who has gone to St. Charles to be with her daughter.

The injury to Miss Tobin is the first serious consequence of football as played by the girls of the college at St. Charles. The fact that football had become a regular feature of athletics at this girls' school was learned by a reporter in making inquiry into the circumstances of Miss Tobin's injury.

It was said at the college that the game was introduced there early this season, and that two teams were formed, with plenty of candidates eager to try for positions. One team was called the Missouri team because most of its members live in this state, and the other was named the Kansas team, for a corresponding reason. They have been practicing for a big Thanksgiving game between the two, to decide the championship of the school.

Although her home is in Arkansas, Miss Tobin was quarterback of the Missouri team. During the practice Friday she caught a punt and was running it back when she tripped and fell heavily with her left leg doubled under her. She was unable to rise, and examination showed her leg to be broken above the knee.

COLLEGE FACULTY MEMBERS HELP CONDUCT RURAL FAIRS

Bert Cooper, Miss Grace Shepherd And Mrs. L. E. White in Worth County This Week

Bert Cooper, Miss Grace Shepherd, and Mrs. L. E. White of the State Teachers College are spending this week at a series of fairs in Worth County. The first of these was held yesterday and the program included agricultural and home economics exhibits and demonstrations in the morning, a basket dinner at noon, and a program and awards by judges in the afternoon.

Mr. Cooper will be there the first of the week judging the agricultural exhibits and the last two days W. W. Stanfield will take his place. Mrs. White is judging the home economics department, and Miss Shepherd is giving talks on the development of the rural school.

At the meeting yesterday there were between 250 and 300 persons present.

Mrs. Thaddeus K. Beal and daughter, Miss Bertha Beal, went to St. Joseph this morning to spend the day.

WILL BEGIN TESTS FOR TUBERCULOSIS

DR. T. J. EAGLE TO INSPECT ALL HERDS IN COUNTY

INDEMNITY IS PROVIDED

Maximum Is $100 For Purebreds and $50 For Grade Cattle—To District County

Dr. T. J. Eagle, a United States government veterinary inspector, is in Maryville today looking for a home to live in, as he expects to be located here for some time. Dr. Eagle will have charge of the testing of all the cattle of Nodaway and Atchison counties if the owners of these cattle desire.

Dr. Eagle requests that all those who own permanent herds, and who may desire to have such herds tested, shall make application and have the test made while he is on the ground. These applications can be secured at the office of the Farm Bureau. A copy is also printed here below which can be clipped and signed and sent to Dr. Eagle.

An organization will be formed, if possible, in six or seven communities of each township. In these communities, owners desiring to have their cattle tested will take them to the centrally located point for the inspection. It will be impossible and not economical to send the inspector back and forth at intervals. Running back and forth to test a few herds at a time causes an unnecessary loss of time and will add greatly to the public expense of this work.

The purpose of the inspection is to secure clean milk from healthy cows for the children of the state; to stop the sale of tuberculous breeding cattle; to protect the dairyman's patrons against tuberculosis infection; to protect the dairyman's family against tuberculosis infection; to protect our permanent herds of dairy and breeding cattle against tuberculosis infection; to stop the immense waste of meat food products condemned on account of tuberculosis; to reduce the demand for and cost of tuberculosis hospitals; finally, to help make tuberculosis hospitals unnecessary; to stop the spread of tuberculosis from cattle to hogs.

The state and federal government, co-operating, are employing competent veterinarians who will test herds of cattle without any expense to them, except that of furnishing the necessary help to handle the cattle.

The law provides for a maximum indemnity of $100 per head on registered pure bred cattle and $50 per head on cattle that are not registered. When cattle are condemned under state and federal co-operation, the federal government pays one-half of the indemnity and the county and state each one-fourth.

The application for tuberculin test reads:

"I hereby make application to have my herd of cattle, as listed on reverse side, inspected and tested for tuberculosis.

"In consideration of testing of my cattle, under co-operating agreement between the Missouri State Board of Agriculture and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, I agree as follows: I will permit my entire herd or any cattle of my herd to be examined, tuberculin tested and retested at such times as are considered necessary by the Federal and State officials; I will separate any diseased or suspicious animals from my herd and thereafter take such precautions in handling them as may be necessary to prevent them from spreading disease to other cattle; I will permit such animals as are found diseased to be branded, marked or tagged in such manner as to insure their identity; and I will allow no cattle to be associated with my herd which have not passed a tuberculin test, approved by the Federal or State officials. I will notify the proper officials immediately of the addition of any cattle to my herd, or the removal of any cattle therefrom, giving the tag or registered name of each. I will subject my premises contaminated by diseased animals to a thorough cleaning and disinfection at my expense under the direction or supervision of the Federal or State officials."

Thanksgiving Program.

A box supper and Thanksgiving program will be given on Thanksgiving eve, November 23, at the Royster school, 2½ miles east of Quitman. Everyone cordially invited. Miss Howell is the teacher.

HELEN CLAIRE PADGETTE DIES AFTER WEEK'S ILLNESS

4-Year-Old Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Padgette Will Be Buried Wednesday

Helen Claire, the 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Padgette, died at 9 o'clock last night at the family residence, following an illness of a week. Besides her parents, she is survived by a brother, Billy, and a Whitworth, of Sturges, Mo., mother of Mrs. Padgette, arrived in Maryville yesterday, being summoned here by her little granddaughter's illness.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Buchanan Street Methodist church, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. B. F. Cline. Burial will be in Miriam cemetery.

PREMIUM LIST OUT FOR POULTRY SHOW

EXHIBITION WILL BE HELD NOVEMBER 30-DECEMBER 3.

SEVERAL SPECIAL PRIZES

Members of Boys and Girls Club Eligible to Two Sets of Premiums.

The premium catalogues for the Poultry Show, November 30 to December 3 have been mailed out, and those wishing a catalogue and not receiving one in a few days may get one from Judge J. H. Saylor at the courthouse, or by phoning the secretary, Mrs. Alfred Jones.

Indications are for a fine Poultry Show. The girls' and boys' club alone is enough to assure a good show. Many inquiries from other breeders, who wish to exhibit their bird, have been received.

The show will be the twentieth annual exhibition of the Northwest Missouri Poultry Association. The association now has forty-six members whose annual dues are paid. The officers are as follows: president, F. P. Robinson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Alfred Jones; assistant secretary, Mrs. John Hamilton; superintendent, H. England. The executive committee is composed of J. H. Saylor, L. O. Rankesacker and R. A. Kinnaird.

Because of the disturbed and unsettled condition of the country, no show was held last year. The show this year is expected to regain all lost ground. Liberal cash premiums are offered on all varieties, with a number of special prizes so arranged that every exhibitor will have a chance to win one or more of these specials. Joseph Dagle of Richland, Ia., will judge the exhibits. The premiums are offered for any variety, on cock, hen, cockerel and pullet, and eggs per dozen.

For members of the boys' and girls' poultry club, first, second, third and fourth prizes of $2, $1.50, $1 and 50c offered. Each boy and girl that received free eggs for hatching and any other boy or girl between the ages of ten and eighteen years that has raised pure bred poultry can compete at the show. All who received free eggs are to exhibit a trio consisting of two pullets and one cockerel if they have them, if not, three of the best they have and as many more as they may wish to send. The entry fee entitles them to compete not only in the boys and girls class but for singles in general show.

Coops will be furnished free to all boys and girls of the poultry.

STUDENTS OF COLLEGE TO OBSERVE HOBO DAY FRIDAY

Will Come To School Disguised As "Knights of the Road," But Will Not Cut Classes

The student body of the State Teachers College will hold their annual Hobo Day, Friday, November 18. All of the students will doll up appropriately and will attend classes disguised as "gentlemen of the road."

It was decided this morning at the weekly meetings of the various student groups that the day would be observed but the students would not cut any of their classes. It is planned to make Hobo Day an annual affair and appropriate programs will be planned for the future.

Kodak Day will also be observed Friday and snap shots will be taken of every phase of school activity. These will be used for the annual, "The Tower."

NATIONS ACCEPT HUGHES' PLAN OF NAVAL REDUCTION

GREAT BRITAIN IS FIRST TO PLEDGE COOPERATION.

JAPAN, FRANCE, ITALY AGREE TO "HOLIDAY"

In Three Days, Conference Agrees on Greatest Move Toward Peace History of World.

Washington, Nov. 15—Within half an hour after the armament conferences had convened today, Great Britain formally accepted "in spirit and principle" the far reaching naval armament proposals laid down Saturday by Secretary of State Hughes. Baron Kato for Japan, next accepted the Hughes proposals. Acceptance by France and Italy followed naturally when the statesmen from London and Tokio had finished addressing the conference.

"We have considered it at length," announced Arthur J. Balfour speaking for Great Britain, "and in admiration and appreciation we agree to its spirit and its principle." He pledged Great Britain's "heartily and complete" cooperation in carrying out the program. This drew the audience to its feet with the first outburst of applause.

Makes Reservation. While accepting the great program, Balfour made certain reservations on behalf of his country, notably in the matter of submarines and suggested the advisability of the abolition of the section prohibiting the construction of "great ocean going submarines" which he said obviously were not adaptable for defensive purposes. "This," he said, "is a question for experts and does not touch the main question."

No doubt was left in the minds of those who heard him that Balfour's government will canvass the world's naval situation in detail before finally accepting the American proposal.

Balfour spoke haltingly and dramatically of the geographical differences between the United States and the British empire.

Balfour concluded his speech at 11:45 o'clock by reading the following telegram from Premier Lloyd George: "The British government has followed the proceedings of the opening of the conference with profound appreciation and wholehearted endorsement of the speeches by President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes, whose bold statesmanlike utterances are pregnant with infinite possibilities. Nothing could go further for the ultimate success of the conference. Please convey to both our most sincere congratulations."

Japan "Gladly Accepts."

After Balfour had finished, Baron Kato for Japan arose and spoke briefly, saying in part:

"Japan deeply appreciates the sincerity of purpose evidenced in the plan of the American government for armament limitation. She is satisfied that the proposed plan, if materialized, will relieve the nations of wasteful expenditures and cannot fail to make peace for the world."

"Japan cannot remain unmoved by the high aims which have actuated the American project. Gladly accepting, therefore, the proposal in principle, Japan is ready to proceed with determination to the sweeping reduction of her naval armament."

SIMON DIXON PINNED UNDER CAR WHEN IT TURNS OVER

Is Found Beneath Automobile Yesterday Afternoon—Several Ribs Broken

A car driven by Simon Dixon late yesterday afternoon turned turtle after crossing the bridge over the Platte River about half way between Parnell and Orsburg. Mr. Dixon, who lives near Parnell, was found pinned under the car about 5 o'clock and the time of the accident is not known. His injuries consist of several broken ribs and the attending physician was unable to determine if there were any internal injuries.

GERMANY BALKS AT INDEMNITY PAYMENT

WILL REFUSE TO PAY AMOUNT DUE JANUARY 15

DEMAND TREATY REVISION

Attitude Is Not One Of Defiance, But Government Will Stand Or Fall On Decision

Berlin, Nov. 15—Germany has unofficially notified the Allies she cannot pay the next reparations installment of five hundred million gold marks, due January 15. It is learned from a high authority today that the German government has conveyed to the Allies, unofficially, the information that she is at the end of her rope. All protests by the Allies about Germany's failure to meet the payment will be met by the statement "try and get it." Germany's attitude, it is made plain, is one of utter despair and not defiance. The allied commission, however, is convinced of Germany's ability to pay. The German government is determined to stand or fall on the decision that the Versailles treaty must be revised.

STUDENTS START CAMPAIGN TO SECURE SUBSCRIPTIONS

College Classes in Rivalry for Prize Offered by Editors of "The Tower."

This morning at the State Teachers College a contest was started between the classes to secure subscriptions to "The Tower," which the senior class is planning to issue next spring. The subscribers are expected to pay half of the subscription rate of $2 at this time so that the seniors may get an idea of the number of copies to be ordered. The freshman class will combat the sophomore and junior classes combined and a committee from each class has been appointed to conduct the contest.

The committees comprises: freshman, Misses Vera Clark, Christine Glenn, Julia Hawkins, Mabel Raines, Mattie Price and Raymond Henning. Hugh Graham and John Querry; sophomore, Richard Kirby, Jack Rowlett, Virgil Adkisson, Misses Clio Coler, Helen Baker and Letha Garten; junior, Miss Mildred Eckert and Lester Webb.

This committee has been selected to canvass the senior class and faculty; Miss Elizabeth Leet, Miss Ethel Gillinger, Miss Lois Hankins and Henry Gannon.

The first class to hand in a 100 per cent report to Paul Pickens, business manager, will be given an extra page in the annual publication as a reward.

The first and second year students of high school rank will compete with the third and fourth year pupils. John Earp, Harold Smith, Miss Mildred Kienzel and Miss Beckman are on the committee for the first group, and the other representatives will be James Draper, Joe Holt, Ova Graham and Miss Mary Hilsenbeck. The winning group of high school rank will be allowed a group picture in "The Tower."

Miss Alice Perry, art editor, has already begun work on her section of the publication, and number of pictures have been taken. The class has placed their engraving contract with the Southwest Engraving Company of Fort Worth, Texas. Each person paying $1 on subscription at this time will be given a badge in the College colors of green and white.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

THE AMERICAN PROPOSAL

The explosion of a shell from one of the new 18-inch naval guns could not have opened the Washington conference in more startling fashion than Secretary Hughes did, with his proposal for the scrapping of battleships. At one swift stroke, Mr. Hughes has plunged the conference into the middle of its labors.

The United States submits a real offer one that means not only limitation but reduction. Apparently this reduction is fair to all three of the leading naval powers. Whatever protest may be made is assuredly a matter of minor detail, which can be adjusted without diminishing the scope of the undertaking.

Certain favorable features of the Hughes proposal instantly stand out:

1. Publicity. The disarmament question is vividly thrown before the people of the whole world. The debate is forced into the open. There can be no long period of jockeying and star-chamber conniving, during which popular suspicion will form and swell into distrust. Public opinion will form on the basis of the magnitude of the proposal, and if the people want action on a large scale, they will force it through.

2. Naval Competition. The Hughes proposal ends naval competition. It establishes, in a general way, the present relative strength of navies as the basis for reduction, but provides that ultimately the British and American navies shall be equal in power and much weaker than they are now. Is Great Britain willing to concede American equality upon the seas? If so, the future is tranquil. If not, can a ratio be agreed upon which will satisfy the United States that American interests are fully protected? This is one of the big questions to be worked out in conference.

3. Tangible reduction. In a physical sense, there are the predominant features of the reduction proposal: The United States will scrap the entire 1916 building program, including many dreadnaughts nearly completed, and upon which $330,000,000 has actually been spent. This means giving up the "new navy." Great Britain is asked to go farther than any other power in scrapping ships now in commission—nine dreadnaughts being listed for destruction. Japan is invited to abandon a building program launched to counter-balance America's 1916 program, but upon which money has been spent. However, Japan is the only power requested to scrap a new dreadnaught already launched.

4. Strategic values. Here is the greatest American concession—the abandonment of six partially built battle cruisers. This will leave the United States without a single battle cruiser, against nine for Great Britain and four for Japan. However, it would leave Japan weak in dreadnaughts and therefore incapable of offensive battle on a major scale. Great Britain would secure an immediate strategic advantage, which would gradually diminish in the future, under the replacement program.

5. The Panama Canal. In only one respect does the Hughes plan seem to ask special consideration for America. That is in the limitation of future battleships to 25,000 tons. The purpose of this is two-fold, to prevent competition in size and power of ships, which would diminish the effect of limiting the number of ships, and to make sure that the American navy can operate at will in either the Atlantic or Pacific. If some other power should develop on effective 50,000-ton battleship, American ships matching it could not get through the canal. But the limitation of size is just as logical a limitation of number, and in time—let us hope—the nations will go farther and agree to cut down from the 35,000-ton figure.

The response of Great Britain and Japan will be awaited eagerly. Mr. Hughes has put the issue squarely up to them. Whatever counter proposals they may make, whatever changes they may suggest, we hope that the American delegation will stand firmly for the Hughes "scrap pile" as the minimum reduction, and insist that any deviation from it shall be additions to the list of scrapped battleships, not subtractions from it.—St. Louis Star.

CONGRESSIONAL BILL IS NOW UP TO GOV. HYDE

Jefferson City, Nov. 15.—The congressional redistricting bill, passed by the house yesterday, is ready for Governor Hyde's signature. It fixes the boundaries of sixteen congressional districts, recasting several of the districts.

The Third district comprises Buchanan, Atchison, Nodaway, Holt, Andrew, Worth, Gentry, DeKalb and Harrison counties.

Platte County, formerly in the Fourth district, with Clay, Ray and Clinton, is in the Sixth district, which also includes a number of Kansas City wards. Most of the residence wards of Kansas City are combined with rural Jackson County in the Fifth district.

J. B. Jones arrived in Maryville last night from Sapulpa, Okla., to visit his daughter, Miss Juno Jones, and his son, Jack Jones.

Success sometimes acts like a moral peroxide, it turns many a head.

There are men in Maryville who are members of so many organizations that the only thing they are sure of is a big funeral when they die.

A Maryville dressmaker went to the husband of one of her customers with a long over due account. "Why don't you go to my wife with it," he angrily shouted. "I have several times," she replied and she does nothing but order a new dress."

Many a Maryville lawyer long ago found that there are other laws than those in the statute books. His wife's word for instance.

A Maryville traveling salesman said the other day that the ham in a railroad restaurant sandwich played about the same part as the truth in a second hand automobile trade.

Talk about the race problem. How about that between the average Maryville man's wages and the cost of living?

A Maryville bachelor was heard to observe the other day that the average woman considers herself charitable when she lets her husband have his own way once.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. DeNeen and family, entertained at dinner Sunday at their home, southeast of Maryville. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Jones of Skidmore, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Straub, and son, Joseph, of Skidmore, Mrs. Harry Thurston of Broken Bow, Nebraska, and the host and hostess.

First Fall Meeting.

The Benjamin Wright Chapter of the Daughters of 1812 will hold its first meeting of the autumn season at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Rebecca Gray at the South Methodist flats. "Interesting Events in America" will be the theme of the meeting.

For Bride and Groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Don R. Hefflin, who were married Saturday afternoon, will be the honor guests at a 6 o'clock dinner given tonight by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Robert Hefflin, at her home, 518 East First Street. Covers will be laid for the bride couple, and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Goforth, Donald Goforth, Mr. and Mrs. French Carter, Misses Alene and Gladys Carter, Mrs. Anna Stauble, Misses Belle and Maymo Hefflin, and the hostess.

Douglas Home Makers Club.

At a recent meeting of the Douglas Home Makers Club, the members decided to make a special study of their house work. Factories have efficiency experts whose duty it is to study every kind of work done in the factory, for the purpose of eliminating time. The study of each different kind of work results in an efficient system in the entire factory. Home makers do not have the opportunity to have an expert come into their homes and give them suggestions how to save time and energy. The Douglas Home Makers Club is going to act as the Efficiency Expert for the homes in their community.

When the club met at the home of Mrs. Will Adkins, the Home Management specialist from the Extension division of the College of Agriculture Missouri University was present and plans were discussed. It was decided to make special studies of each house task for the purpose of making it just as easy to perform as possible by studying methods used as well as equipment in the home and on the market designed to make that task easier. Cooking and making bread were selected as the first tasks to be studied. For cooking and canning Mrs. J. R. Gallagher is going to try out the steam Pressure Cooker to determine the exact amount of time and labor saved. A family dinner, strong flavored vegetables such as onions and cabbage as well as canning meat and some fall vegetables is a part of the test the cooker will be put to. At a later meeting Mrs. Gallagher will give her opinion of the cooker and every woman in the community will have the benefit of her experience. Mrs. Guy Erickson is already keeping time on mixing and kneading bread. She is going to use a bread mixer to see if it saves time and labor in making bread.

In order to make house work efficient each kind of work will be studied separately. The work shop, the kitchen, will be given special attention. Many steps can be saved by arranging the furniture and cooking utensils in convenient places.

Other groups of women interested in making their house work easier can make arrangements with the Farm Bureau through the County Agent to secure the help of the Home Management Specialist who will help you plan work and give demonstration with different kinds of equipment.

The Home Economic Extension Service of the University maintains on subjects of interests to the farm woman, farm women, including cooking, canning, sewing, household conveniences, child feeding and many other subjects. The women in any community in Nodaway County may obtain the services of these extension specialists without cost by making arrangements through the Farm Bureau office. It is hoped that many other communities besides Douglas will avail themselves of this opportunity.—Farm Bureau News.

Meeting Changed to Monday.

The meeting of the Douglas Home Makers Club which was announced for Thursday afternoon, has been changed to Monday afternoon, November 21, when Mrs. Otha McDowell will be the hostess. Miss Fra Clark, home economic specialist of the University of Missouri, will meet with the club.

Tourist Department.

An open session of the Tourist Department of the Twentieth Century Club will be held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. C. Hellmers, 403 West Third street. The members are requested to meet at the Hellmers residence at 1:30 o'clock prepared for an automobile ride, which will be the opening feature of a surprise program in charge of Mrs. F. S. King, Mrs. J. C. Allender and Mrs. C. D. Bellows. The 1:30 o'clock luncheon announced yesterday was an error.

12 o'clock Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Trueblood entertained Sunday with a 12 o'clock dinner at their home on West Cooper street, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wehrle of Mound City. Additional guests were Mrs. Mary A. Ringgold and Clea and Harold Trueblood.

Alloway Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Alloway entertained at dinner Sunday when plates were laid for the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brunk and children, Marjie, Harold, Everett, Guy, Katherine and Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. Will Logan and children, Evelyn and William Robert, Misses Gladys, Irene and Marjean Alloway and the hosts.

To Speak at Luncheon.

Uel W. Lankin, president of the State Teachers College, will be one of the speakers at the November luncheon of the Federation of Women's Club, which will be held November 26 in the crystal room of the Hotel Robidoux in St. Joseph. Miss Calla Varner, formerly of Maryville, as chairman, will preside.

ARE HAVING PICTURES TAKEN

FOR HIGH SCHOOL ANNUAL Work on the 1921 Maryvillian, the High School annual, has already been begun by Gerald Hall, editor-in-chief, and his staff of assistants. The junior and senior classes, which will have individual pictures of their members, are having the photographs taken now in order that the cuts may be made by the first of the year. Miss Evelyn Raines is in charge of this part of the work.

The annual is published by the senior class. Each of the other classes has representatives on the staff.

ANDREW COUNTY RED CROSS WANTS NODAWAY CO. FILM.

Miss Marie Thompson, secretary of the Andrew County Chapter of the Red Cross, has asked the Maryville Chamber of Commerce for its Nodaway County and Red Cross films to be shown at Savannah next Friday night, when the Andrew County chapter will open the fifth annual roll call there. Secretary George Pickens has the films at St. Louis this week, but he may return in time to allow the Andrew County chapter to use the films in their campaign.

WOMEN OF ST. PATRICK'S TO HOLD BAZAAR TOMORROW.

The women of St. Patrick's Catholic church will hold their annual bazaar in the basement of the church tomorrow. A large collection of staple and fancy needlework and many other useful and ornamental articles will be sold. At noon a chicken dinner will be served and in the evening a roast pork supper will be given. Tomorrow night an interesting program will be rendered, including a comedy, "Seven Chances," under the direction of Leo Mullarkey. The bazaar as usual is expected to attract many patrons.

SAYS CHURCH MUST PREPARE THE WAY FOR DISARMAMENT

Constructive Solution of Problems Must Be Reached by Changing Men's Hearts.

By DR. SIDNEY L. GULICK (Secretary, Commission on International Justice and Goodwill Federal Council of Churches.)

ARTICLE IV.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Chemists and physicists declare that future wars will be ever more dreadful and costly, more tragic and destructive. Economists say that bankruptcy lies ahead of the nation and of the world if the present war system is continued.

Sociologists state that unemployment will increase, that misery will grow, that civilization itself will decay and finally collapse if the mad race for armaments between great nations is indefinitely continued. Biologists declare that the human breed will degenerate in proportion as we send our best and fittest young life to the shambles for wholesale slaughter.

These positive and important declarations by unquestionable authorities convince us that ways must be found for preventing future wars. Each group of scientists makes his distinctive contribution. That contribution however, should note is negative—Thou shalt not. They do not go far in pointing the way nor in making it a reality.

Jurists, statesmen and legislators, however, come forward. They also make their distinctive contributions. They insist that world peace can come between the nations, only as it has measurably come between individuals, by the organized action of those who are peace loving and law abiding.

For world peace nations must unite to establish international law, courts of justice and boards of arbitration; and these must be supported by the moral sanctions and enforced by the united power of the co-operation nations. These authoritative spokesmen have already devised the social and political machinery. They are saying to the nations: "This is the way, walk ye in it."

So, the Church has a distinctive contribution to make. It declares on the highest authority that men of every nation and race are brothers, that above all nations is humanity; that men and peoples of every land and race have inalienable rights; that justice, fair treatment and goodwill between peoples and races are inescapable obligations, immutable moral laws ordained of God; that their violation is sin and brings terrible disaster and if persisted in, final destruction.

It has become clear that no merely intellectual message however cogent, no appeal to the "enlightened self-interest of mankind" can establish a warless world. Men's hearts must be changed. There must come into the life of millions of men the spirit of good-will, of fair play, of justice. Deeds of good-will and service can alone disarm suspicion and fear. Spiritual disarmament must precede physical disarmament. Not until nations stop hating and fearing and suspecting each other, not until they develop confidence in each other's good intentions can we expect any very sweeping reduction of armaments. "A sound and wide view of national interests," says Lord Bryce, "teaching peoples that they would gain more by cooperation of communities than by conflict, may do much to better those relations. But in the last resort the question is one of moral progress of the individual men who compose the communities."

The Church holds in its hands the

The Beginning of The End of War

Let us hope that the conference of nations now going on at Washington is the beginning of the end of warfare.

The confidence of the world in future peace will do more to bring back universal prosperity and happiness than anything else in the world.

When we are sure that we are safe and that our sons will not be called to another great conflict we will go on with the business of civilization with a new energy and a new determination to secure for ourselves and our loved ones the greatest benefits of life.

Let's pull for the disarmament conference.

keys of life and death. Its works is to create in men and in nations and races that spirit of justice, of brotherliness, of unselfish service, of co-operation. This is the way of life for men and for nations, and the only way. This spirit must dominate our nation if the Conference is to reach any large degree of success. To secure this is the distinctive contribution of the Church.

RECENT ELECTIONS CHEER DEMOCRATS

GAINS MADE ARE LARGELY PSYCHOLOGICAL.

RESULTS ARE SIGNIFICANT

Election of Democratic Governor and Full Ticket in New York Is Expected Next Year.

BY WALLACE BASSFORD
(Special News Correspondent)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15—The elections held in various states last Tuesday would indicate a good beginning in the return to political normalcy. Such a decided drift, occurring in a general Congressional election, or in the Presidential election, would place the Democrats in power. It is true that not a great deal was gained in the election in the way of offices or new power, but much is accomplished for the future by the heartening influence of decided victories in half a dozen states, giving proof that it is easily possible to turn the Republicans out of the House of Representatives next fall. While the election in New York has attracted the greater attention, those in Virginia, Kentucky and Maryland were very important as showing that the Republican high tide of a year ago has been rolled back, and that all danger of breaking the solid Democratic South has again passed. Part of this result can doubtless be traced to the President's blunder in going into the heart of the South as the guest of the Southern white people and saying at Birmingham "Whether you like it or not, you have to give the negro political and economic equality." This came when Colonel Anderson, the Republican candidate for Governor of Virginia, was running on a platform that called for the removal of all restrictions on negro suffrage in the State. He was defeated by the largest majority ever rolled up in the Old Dominion, even the Siemp district, Republican for years, going Democratic. In a year from now Siemp has to go before the people and overcome a 1,600 Democratic majority in his District.

If the result in New York means anything, it means that the Democrats can look forward to the election of a Governor and a full State ticket next fall. A strong, young Democratic candidate from up-state—such a man as Franklin Roosevelt or Peter G. Ten Eyck—would appeal strongly to the political logic of the situation. It is evident that Tammany, strongly entrenched, is in position to give the best sort of account of the greater city, while a strong campaigner of personal popularity up-state would be able to crystallize to his own support the growing dissatisfaction with State and National administrations. Roosevelt's campaign as the Democratic candidate for vice-president made him many friends, while Ten Eyck, serving in Congress from a district usually Republican, showed fine vote-getting strength against the Harding landslide last year. His home city, Albany, has just elected its first Democratic mayor in 22 years. He is young, popular, a real Democrat.

comes of one of the old and leading families of the State with generations of clean record behind him and occupies a position of peculiar and increasing possibilities. His career will be worth watching.

The more one observes the maneuvers of the group of Republican Senators known as the Agricultural Bloc, the more one is forced to the conclusion that it is, more than anything else, shrewd scheme to hold in line and keep satisfied the large voting population in the West that cannot remain quiescent while their party seems under the domination of the big eastern interests. The fight the Western Senators are making in the Senate slants greatly in the direction of a hippodrome performance. If the Agricultural Bloc succeeds in holding the great bulk of the Western Republican voters in line until next fall, some of the Senators will save their own skins and remain in position to lead their flocks up to the polls three years hence to vote for the re-election of an administration constantly under the control of the big moneyed interests, the same interests that selected Mellon for the Treasury portfolio and which are now succeeding in securing great reductions in the income surtaxes, such as cutting almost half in two the taxes on incomes above one million dollars. It is apparent that the tax bill, when the weary public finally sees it enacted into law, will reduce taxes most for those who need the reduction the least. More and more are the old political observers in Washington reminded of the administrations of Harrison and Taft. Both were dominated by the money power, both were repudiated at the Congressional elections in the middle of a term in office, and both were defeated for re-election.

The Springfield, Mass., Republican says that Mr. Harding might have truthfully said that the South offers the negro more of economic opportunity than the North. Who remembers the race riot at Springfield, Ill., Lincoln's home town, which grew out of the question of economic equality—the worst race riot ever known in the country?

And Marion, Oht., the President's home town, went Democratic!

No "Disarmament" in Bug War.

The Missouri chinch bug damage in 1921 was $2 for each man, woman and child in the state, while the Hessian fly damage was $3 each," according to Professor A. C. Burrill, extension entomologist of the Missouri College of Agriculture.

"Summer warfare on chinch bugs cost some farmers from five to fourteen days per man; while winter burning will require only one day per man, in the slack winter period.

"Let the children help fire the bugs with kerosene-soaked corn cobs in a loop of stiff wire six feet long for a handle. Another good torch for firing is made of a three-quarter or one-inch pipe, four feet long and threaded for an elbow, tightly packed at the lower end with a wick of cotton rags and filled with coal oil and corked so it will not spill out.

"If heavy tufts of grass, the pet resorts of the chinch bugs, are too green or too damp to burn well, bring along the oil can and pour less than a spoonful on each tuft.

"Where the grass is not so damp, the torch made of piping can have the wick loosened sufficiently to allow it to drip slowly. Half a dozen drops to the center of the drier tufts of grass is enough.

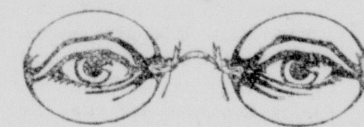

"Besides the bunch grass and broomsedge (otherwise known as big and little bluestem), and volunteer timothy, go after the slough grasses or oil their bases.

"A Lincoln county farmer oiled a whole bottom too heavy with litter to plow, using his power sprayer and coal oil. Then it went up like a flesh.

"The best place to find bugs is in the bunch grass and broomsedge tuft, the false redtop, barnyard grass, heavy growth of crabgrass and the green fox-tails, which fill so many fields in the late fall. Do not worry about any of these grasses where the winter rains will normally flood the ground above the bottom of the tuft.

"Remember every female chinch bug killed in the late autumn or mid-winter means 150 less in next spring's grain, and 11,250 less in next fall's corn."

There must not be any disarmament in the bug war business!

Hog Cholera Vaccination
In view of the prevalence of hog cholera in certain sections of the county, the Missouri Experiment Station bulletin No. 174, recently issued on, "Hog Cholera and Immature Corn", should be of special interest to men who want to know more about diagnosing cholera and preventing it. The bulletin discusses vaccinating hogs for cholera, also secondary infections — "hemorrhagic Septicemia mixed infection" etc. We have a supply of these bulletins at the Farm Bureau office for free distribution.—Farm Bureau News.

TAKES CARE
OF 5 CHILDREN

Mrs. Taylor's Sickness Ended by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Roxbury, Mass.—"I suffered continually with backache and was often dependent, had dizzy spells and at my monthly periods it was almost impossible to keep around at my work. Since my last baby came two years ago my back has been worse and no position I could get in would relieve it, and doctor's medicine did not help me. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have found great relief since using it. My back is much better and I can sleep well. I keep house and have the care of five children so my work is very trying and I am very thankful I have found the Compound such a help. I recommend it to my friends and if you wish to use this letter I am very glad to help any woman suffering as I was until I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. MAURICE E. TAYLOR, 5 St. James Place, Roxbury, Mass.

Backache is one of the most common symptoms of a displacement or derangement of the female system. No woman should make the mistake of trying to overcome it by heroic endurance, but profit by Mrs. Taylor's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

GIVES SCHOOLS TO ITALIAN CHILDREN

First Farm School in Italy Supported by American Boys and Girls.

The Junior American Red Cross is responsible for the pioneer foreign school of Italy. This school is located in the province of Umbria, not very far from Rome, and is housed in a historic building consecrated in ancient times by St. Francis d'Assisi. In this school Italy is trying its first experiment in student government as a means of training the children of that nation in the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. The success is not yet assured, but the experiment is attracting nation-wide interest and has brought much renown to the Junior Red Cross of America.

When the army of Austria first over-ran Italy in the fall of 1917, many school teachers fled to the South with their pupils. One of these, who had taught in a boys' school and had managed to bring his entire class through to safety, planned the farm school, which is known as the Collestrada School. Officials of the American Red Cross aided in the selection of the site, a huge, well-proportioned old hospital, where years ago St. Francis d'Assisi used to visit the sick. The Junior Red Cross of America provided the means for supporting these Italian children who were orphaned by war, and in recognition of this fact an inscription was placed over the door as follows:

"The Junior American Red Cross restored this historic building, consecrated in ancient times by St. Francis, and it is now the home of the Italian children orphaned during the war."

"The boys in this farm school all work together for the common good. They apportion the work among themselves, have a school president, whom they elect by popular vote, and have a regular disciplinary code and a board of discipline, members of which are appointed by the school as a whole. This board decides the punishment to be given offenders against the school's laws."

With the aid of their teacher in mathematics, the boy farmers keep their own accounts. Under the guidance of their other teachers they cultivate the school's lands, raise chickens, turkeys, rabbits and bees, and with the surplus of the proceeds of their farms they support other orphans like themselves who wish to join the colony.

There now are fifty boys in the school, and other schools in Italy are trying out in a more or less complete way the co-operative system in use in the Collestrada School.

TEACHING PUBLIC TO PROTECT ITSELF FROM ACCIDENT

The American Red Cross is engaged at present on a campaign to teach accident prevention and first-aid-to-the-injured to the men, women and children in the United States, with the idea of making every individual his own first-aid agency in case of emergency, and to create volunteer forces of men qualified for such duty in case of war, if war should come again to this country.

Classes in swimming and water life-saving methods have been organized wherever Chapters are near enough to bodies of water of sufficient size to permit such classes. In industrial communities industrial first-aid and life-saving is taught in factories and in community centers. Good results have been obtained everywhere thus far, although the work still is more or less in its infancy. This is one of the interesting lines of activity followed in the community center work of the Red Cross.

AIDS THE MEXICAN

The American Red Cross has extended its work beyond the Mexican border, according to information recently received at the headquarters of the Southwestern Division, American Red Cross, at St. Louis. Nine Mexican civilian families left destitute in a recent cloudburst near Eagle Pass, Tex. were assisted by a volunteer Red Cross worker belonging to the Eagle Pass Red Cross Chapter. This volunteer worker was able, through her intimate knowledge of Spanish to render material and worthwhile assistance to many who were in dire need.

About a year ago I was having a fancy dress made. When the sleeves were finished, they mysteriously disappeared. I looked for them for days, but could not find them. CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE PLATE

How the Spirit of Giving Was Manifested in the Churches a Hundred Years Ago.

Fresh-laid eggs are frequently deposited on the contribution plate in some of the backwoods Episcopal churches of the South. Which goes to show that the spirit of giving hasn't changed so very much in the hundred years or so of the Church Missionary society. The first report of the society dated May 30, 1823, was dug up the other day, and while it shows no contribution of eggs, a score of other articles of merchandise seem to have found their way to the plate from the people who gave "according to their means." This report, for instance, shows that back in 1821 David Sneithan gave a basket of groceries for the support of the missionaries; Stephen North contributed a medicine chest; William Rawland, a cross-cut saw; Joe and John Needles, two sieves; S. Massey, a coffee mill. John and T. Chilly contributed, alas, a singularly empty gift—a safe. John Burson came along with a tub, whether bath or wash is not stated. C. Buckley is credited on the books with "deduction on hat," $1.50; John McAllister donates a thermometer. Among other miscellanies are hymn books, slates, spades, shoes, trousers, chairs, soap, brushes and locks. Finally from one Richard Markall there is a hoghead of tobacco, which encourages the hope that some good missionary of the church in his lonely station afar off enjoyed a comfortable smoke, says the publicity department of the Protestant Episcopal church.

HORSE A PRACTICAL JOKER

South American Physician Tells of Quadruped With Well-Developed Sense of Humor.

Have horses a sense of humor? A South American doctor has one which is said to be fond of a practical joke.

Visiting a farmhouse, the doctor tied the animal to a post near which hung a rope attached to a large bell, used as a dinner signal for the workmen. Then he went in to see his patient.

A few minutes later the bell rang violently. The doctor looked out, but could see nothing. Again the bell rang. At the third ring the doctor concealed himself behind a tree in the yard, and kept watch on the bell-rope.

Then, to his astonishment, he saw his horse lift up his head, seize the rope between its teeth, and give it a violent pull. After that the doctor sprang out and faced the animal, which put on a look of complete innocence.

Poking his nose into a basket in which a cat lay curled up, the same horse got a nasty scratch from pussies for his pains. The animal, taking careful aim, kicked the cat and basket sky-high and then trotted off with a low chuckle of glee.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Ancient English Food Laws.

There were pure food laws in England as long ago as the year 1381, and those who violated them received punishment to fit the crime.

The Guildhall Librarian has been exploring an old box of parchments deposited long ago with the corporation by the Poulterers company.

Habits are long-lived in the city. Poultry has been sold since the middle of the fourteenth century at Leadenhall, where the city men today buy a bird to take home in the evening. But nowadays a goose costs more than sixpence. On the other hand, a poulterer who unluckily sells bad pigeons has got to stand in the pillory while the pigeons are burned under his nose.

This happened in 1381 to a "poulter" who sold 16 pigeons "in contempt of the city and deceit of the people for that the same were putrid and an abomination to mankind."—Lincoln Correspondence of the New York World.

SENATE REJECTS HYDE
APPOINTEES YESTERDAY

Refuses to Confirm Ormiston and McCawley—Ben Hyde Confirmed.

Jefferson, City, Nov. 15.—The combination between Republican and Democratic senators proved strong enough late yesterday to result in the rejection of the appointments by Governor Hyde of Todd N. Ormiston of Kansas City as state inspector of oils, and A. L. McCawley of Carthage, the Democratic member of the state tax commission. The appointment of Ben C. Hyde of Kansas City as state superintendent of insurance was unanimously confirmed.

As had been generally known here for several days, certain Republican and Democratic senators had entered a combination under which Ormiston and McCawley were to be rejected. Apparently McCawley did not have a good friend among the fifteen Democratic senators. Ormiston has enemies among the Republicans. The rest was easy when the combination was made, as it undoubtedly was several days ago. Senators Proctor of Kansas City and Irwin of Jefferson City are credited with leading the fight against Ormiston. He was accused, along with other things, of charging $15 a day for the use of his own motor car.

MARKET LETTER

Kansas City Stock Yards, Nov. 15.—Another heavy run of short fed cattle in Chicago, following last week's slow trade there, added further weakness to the market yesterday and caused a rather slow trade at points that had moderate receipts. Here receipts were less than a week ago, and materially short of a year ago. Trade was rather slow with prices steady to slightly lower. Hogs were steady to 15 cents lower, mostly 15 cents lower. Lambs were strong to 25 cents higher. Straight range lambs sold up to $9.00.

Yesterday's Receipts
Receipts yesterday were 23,000 cattle, 8,000 hogs, 6,000 sheep compared with 25,000 cattle, 7,500 hogs, and 3,500 sheep a week ago, and 38,000 cattle, 11,500 hogs, and 8,250 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle
Cattle receipts 23,000 carried only a small per cent suitable for killing purposes, but the trade was slowed down considerably by the heavy run of short fed steers and lower prices in Chicago. Here the best cows, steers and heifers were steady. The medium to plain kinds were 10 to 15 cents lower, and common kinds slow sale, though close to steady. Average quality was ordinary. No full fed steers arrived. Calves were 50 cents to $1.00 lower.

Stockers and Feeders
Though a good many country buyers were here and the supply of thin cattle large, trade was rather quiet. Good to choice classes sold readily, and the plain and ordinary kinds were slow sale. Prices however were held steady as indications are that the demand will broaden later in the week.

Hogs
A few medium and light weight hogs that sold early to order and shipper buyers at $6.75 to $7.00 were quoted steady. Packers however held off for lower prices, and finally gained concessions of 10 to 15 cents. The packers top was $6.50 and bulk of sales $6.10 to $6.50. Pigs sold up to $7.75. Receipts though larger than a week ago, were smaller than a year ago.

Sheep and Lambs
Some range lambs sold at $9.00 and most of the ewes which were ordinary quality sold at $6.75 and $4.00. The market was quoted steady on fat sheep and strong to 25 cents higher on lambs. The few feeding lambs here brought $7.75, fully steady.

Horses and Mules
Fairly liberal supplies are in sight for the horse and mule auctions this week. Yesterday's horse prices were unchanged. Demand was fairly active.

Sam Jordan-isms

The following sentences, closely connected in sense and sentiment, were picked up the other day at random by a listener who heard Sam Jordan of the Missouri State Board of agriculture deliver a Farmers' Institute address:

Loyalty, like charity, begins at home.

He who is not loyal to his fireside, his community, and his state, can not be very loyal to his country.

What are you living for, service or self?

If money is all that you are going to leave when you die, you had better pass on, for we can use your money.

If you are working for the community, we hope you will live to a ripe old age.

The birth of Lincoln was a greater event in the history of the world than the conquest of Napoleon or the inauguration of Madison.

It is a great thing to do something for the community, for the nation, for humanity.

Take your own measure, and find out for what you stand.

We are desperately short on leaders in this country. There are many persons who are natural leaders, but most any person can be a good follower.

Each person in the land has a service to perform.

I do not know what you are worth to a community, but if you are living for yourself alone you are not worth much—and the sooner you move away the better it will be for the community.

Service is really the only thing that counts in the final windup.

Thanksgiving Letter
Ravenwood, Mo.,
Nov. 12, 1921

Dear Sir:

I don't know if any little boys write Thanksgiving letters or not but as I am so thankful that we have had such fine weather to go to school in, we have such a fine teacher, Miss Mona Farr. I go the Diamond Branch school and we are close to the woods and we sure have some fine times playing in the leaves. I have a little sister, Geraldine, that goes to school with me and we have never been late yet for school, so I am thankful for all this. I am 9 years old. We may not have no turkey for dinner but I will have some fat ducks, for I hear them quack every morning and Mr. Fox was around the other night but I got dad to fire off the old shot gun and he left. As my letter is long I close. Wish every one a happy and pleasant Thanksgiving.

Corn Is Not Worth Much.

An anonymous correspondent sends a schedule of the exchange value of corn in comparison with things the farmers buy. The figures are approximately correct. Corn is worth 20 to 30 cents a bushel on the farms in Kansas. Perhaps some of the comparisons are based on city prices, which are higher than those in the country in some instances but the figures are an interesting exhibit of the unfortunate economic situation of the farmers. Here is the schedule:

It takes:
1 bushel of corn for a shave.
2 bushels of corn for a hair cut.
2 bushels of corn for a meal in an ordinary restaurant.
4 bushels of corn for a bushel of potatoes.
8 bushels of corn for a 18 pound sack of flour.
10 bushels of corn for a bushel of apples.
20 bushels of corn for an ordinary hat.
22 bushels of corn for a pair of ordinary shoes.
150 bushels of corn for an ordinary suit of clothes.
2,000 bushels of corn for a Ford.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAYS CENTRAL SATURDAY

WILL BE THE BIG GAME OF THE SEASON.

COLLEGE GAME CANCELED

Contest With Kansas City University Will not be Played—Next With Missouri Valley.

The big football game of the season, unless a Thanksgiving game is scheduled, will be played on the college gridiron next Saturday, when the fighting green and black team of Maryville High School will meet the powerful machine of St. Joseph Central. The game will close the season for the local High School, unless Supt. L. E. Ziegler succeeds in getting a suitable opponent for Turkey Day.

St. Joseph Central has a team which would outweigh many a college eleven. They have alternately played good and bad football, winning from the strong Sedalia and Leavenworth teams and losing to Omaha, Trenton, Chillicothe and Cameron. The last three teams are the strongest in this part of the state.

Trenton defeated Central only 7 to 0, after mauling a 38 to 0 score against Maryville, but Chillicothe won from the St. Joseph eleven 27 to 7—practically the same margin as that by which they defeated the local team.

The members of the M. H. S. squad emerged from the Bethany game in good condition. Masters and Stan England, tackles, will not be in the best of shape, but both will probably start the game. With this pair in the game and the guard and center positions well cared for, Coach Ziegler expects to be able to check the rushes of Central's 199-pound line. Ogden played his best game of the season at end in the Bethany game and the other end, with Captain Carstens, will not be a profitable point for the St. Joseph backs to direct their attack. With Ellis, Barry, O'Banion, Willoughby, Howell, England, Davenport, Fannon and several others to choose from, Coach Ziegler will be able to send in a strong backfield.

The football game between the State Teachers College and Kansas City University, which was to have been played here Saturday, has been canceled. The game was called off for two reasons. The first was that the college authorities had promised to let the Maryville High School and the Central High School of St. Joseph have their annual battle on the college gridiron either Friday or Saturday and as the game has to be played Saturday and as a double header could not be staged one of the games had to be called off.

The second reason is that the game could not be played on Friday as there has already been too much time lost from regular studies at the college on account of Friday games and the authorities did not deem it wise to set aside another afternoon from studies.

The team is undergoing stiff workouts this week, however, in preparation for the Turkey Day game with Missouri Valley College at Marshall. The coach and the man on the squad are anxious to close the season with a win and consequently the men are practicing harder and training better than ever before.

The team is somewhat handicapped with injuries this week. With the loss of Pickens, who broke his collar bone in the Warrenburg game, and the sickness of Allan, the backfield is affected to a great extent. It now falls upon Coach Sprong to develop more backfield material for the final struggle.

The plans now are to take the whole squad on the Missouri Valley trip but this is conditional and all of the men on the squad are working hard and there are no loafers.

WILL PAY TAX ASSESSMENT FOUND ILLEGAL

Stanberry, Mo., Nov. 15—In spite of the fact that the tax assessment levied for support of the Stanberry band has been discovered to be illegal, it is believed that the majority of the taxpayers of the town will pay the assessment. At a mass meeting held Saturday night at which Mayor W. F. Sager and Isaac Bass, a merchant, were the speakers, a resolution was unanimously adopted directing the city tax collector to receive payment of the tax from all who will voluntarily pay it, keep the money in separate fund and disburse it for maintenance of the band.

Thirty members of the former band which attained an enviable reputation, and about twenty youngsters are taking lessons under the direction of a competent leader. Heretofore the organization has been maintained through contributions by merchants and other public spirited citizens of the town.

James Blackford of Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada, arrived in Maryville yesterday morning for a visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Blackford, and with other relatives. Mr. Blackford left Nodaway county eight years ago for Canada and this is his first visit here since that time.

WILL SHIP BABY BEEVES TO INTERNATIONAL SHOW

Billy Berg Will Pick Carload of Prize Winners From His Purebred Angus Herd

One of the prettiest sights we have seen in many a day was the herd of fat baby beefs in the feed lot on the farm of Billy Berg, about five miles southeast of Parnell in Worth County. Mr. Berg lives in Maryville, but operates about 900 acres of land which is across the line in Worth County. Most of the land is too rough to be plowed up and cultivated and is kept in grass. Some fields are virgin prairie and lots of the old original blue-stem still survive, but the bluegrass has crowded it out in most places. Mr. Berg keeps a herd of 120 pure bred Angus cows. Each year he fattens the calves raised from his herd and ships them to Chicago as fat baby beefs at the time of the International Livestock Show. While his herd of breeding cows are registered cattle, Mr. Berg has his own ideas about beef types and does not discriminate against an animal of his preferred type because it may not be of the most fashionable family and regardless of how fashionable a pedigree a cow may have, he does not put her in his breeding herd unless she measures up to his ideal of beef type as an individual. There is striking uniformity of type through the large herd of breeding cows. It is doubtful whether any breeder in America can show a herd of cows as large as Mr. Berg's, with anything like the degree of uniformity which his cattle have. They are all short legged, compact smooth thickly fleshed individuals. The uniformity again shows up in the baby beefs. Walk into the feed lot and pick out what you consider the best individual, then shut your eyes while some one drives the cattle around and try to pick out the same individual again. Unless you are a good judge of cattle the chances are you will not pick the same steer.

The baby beefs that are in prime fat condition will weigh about 1100 pounds. They will be shipped to Chicago, to arrive there about Thanksgiving day. There are over one hundred head from which to pick a prize carload.—Farm Bureau News

Choice Cuts —and Others

A few weeks ago a newspaper man visited one of the wholesale markets of Swift & Company. He wanted to see a retailer buy a loin of beef and then watch the retailer sell the porterhouse and sirloin steaks from it over his counter. He thought this would make a good story.

The head of the market took the reporter into the "cooler" where he showed him a high class side of beef. With a wooden skewer he marked off the loin and said, "That would cost a retailer just 40 cents a pound, but it's only 8 per cent of the weight of the whole side."

"This piece, (and he marked off about one-fourth of the carcass) is the chuck and I'll sell it at wholesale for 7 cents a pound. Please remember, this is one of our best sides of beef. We also have beef which sells for half as much."

This wide variation in the price of various cuts from the same side of beef is caused largely by demand for the tender cuts. The others are, of course, just as wholesome.

It seems as though more people than ever are demanding choicer cuts, and their demand sets the price. If few people ask for the forequarter cuts, the price of forequarters will automatically drop to a figure low enough to induce people to buy because of cheapness.

Even though certain cuts sell for relatively high prices, other cuts, due to lack of demand, sell so low that our profit from all sources over a period of five years averaged only a fraction of a cent a pound.

It is competition between consumers for the choice cuts that keeps prices for those cuts relatively high; an equalizing demand for all parts of the carcass would benefit producer, packer, retailer and consumer.

Our average wholesale selling price of all products has fallen about 40 per cent since September 1920.
